

Ageing, Health and Pensions in Europe

An Economic and Social Policy Perspective

Edited by Lans Bovenberg,
Arthur van Soest and Asghar Zaidi

This book presents an engaging overview of the future research challenges for economists and other social scientists concerning population ageing, pensions, health and social care in Europe. Various renowned international experts discuss how scientific research can provide cutting-edge evidence on income security of the elderly, well-being of the elderly, and labour markets and older workers – these are three themes dominating the current European economic and social policy debate. By adopting a forward looking approach, the book discusses the knowledge gaps remaining and research opportunities on offer. It also reviews data needs and other infrastructure requirements and explores the implications for future research policy. This book will be of particular interest to national and European policymakers and also leaders of European research programmes in the fields of economic and social policy.
